WWS Pushes Rights; Ike's Brother Picked

NEWS BRIEFS

New Rights Law Is Challenged

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The Hear of Atlanta Motel Corp. asked a federal court today to enjoin U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy from enforcing the public accommodations section of the new civil rights law.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court by Moreton Rolleston, hotel president, also asks 11 million in damages against the United States on grounds the desegregation requirements of the law will ruin his business, reputation and good will.

The suit brands the Civil Rights Act as unconstitutional on two specific grounds:

1. It violates the Constitution's 5th Amendment because the government is now empowered "to take for public use part of the rights of the motel in and to its private property without any compensation."

2. It exceeds the constitutional authority of Congress to regulate commerce.

Congress is empowered to regulate only foreign and interstate commerce, but on the other hand Rolleston contends his business is not interstate, but local in nature.

U. S. Rejects Castro Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States dismissed Monday Prime Minister Fidel Castro's latest bid for improving U.S.-Cuban relations by reiterating that his ties with the Soviet Union and his export of Communist subversion "are not negotiable."

State Department officials said Castro's maneuver apparently had been made with an eye on the meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers here in two weeks. The ministers are expected to support a tightening of sanctions against Castro.

Sen. Neuberger To Marry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Maurine B. Neuberger, D-Ore., announced Monday she plans to marry Dr. Philip Solomon, Boston psychiatrist, later this year.

Last week both Mrs. Neuberger and Solomon denied reports that they planned to wed.

Mrs. Neuberger said she would continue to serve in the Senate and would be in Oregon all fall after the adjournment of Congress.

Mrs. Neuberger is the widow of Sen. Richard L. Neuberger, R-Ore., who died in March 1960. She was elected later that year to succeed him for a term ending Jan. 3, 1967.

Tshombe Asked To Unify Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, THE Congo (AP)—Once the symbol of secession, Moise Tshombe announced Monday he has been asked to form a Congo government of national unity. But he faced a challenge from followers of the late Patrica Lumumba, a Communist favorite when he was premier.

Since his return from voluntary exile, the former secessionist president of rich Katanga Province has worked hard to get the support of the Lumumbists and all other factions in the turbulent Congo.

In saying that President Joseph Kasavubu had named him premier - designate, Tshombe claimed he had received the backing of all save "a few individuals athirst for power." This may have been a reference to the Lumumbists.

Jackie Moves To New York

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy, widow of the assassinated president, announced Monday she and her two children will move from Washington this fall to live in New York City.

She will live temporarily at the Carlyle Hotel until she moves into a permanent apartment in New York.

The Carlyle is the hotel where her husband stayed when he was in New York.

Market Hits High With AT&T Boost

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market climbed to another peak Monday as American Telephone reached a new high.

A T & T rose to a high of 75 and then dipped to 74¾ for a gain of ⅝ for the day.

The Dow Jones industrials were up 2.77 to 844.24 but had been ahead almost 4 points at mid-afternoon.

Nitro Blast Empties Town

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP) — Four explosions and a series of fires ripped through an explosives manufacturing plant today leaving five workers unaccounted for.

One police officer fell dead of a heart attack and at least 11 persons-two of them housewives —were injured.

The residents of Edinburg, a community of 450, about three miles from the American Cyanamid Co. complex were evacuated for a time.

The five men, listed by the company as "missing" were identified as Eugene Rudesill, 45; Gerald Wingard, 30; Donald Schenker, 38; Wilbur Robinson, 49; and Clarence Claypool, 63; all of New Castle.

A search for them was called off after dark and will be resumed Tuesday morning, a company spokesman said.

The complex is on a 535-acre tract, five miles west of New Castle and 80 miles northwest of Pittsburgh.

A. J. Kaiser, company public relations officer said there were more than 100 workers in the operating area at the time of the first explosion. A total of about 250 normally is employed. The cause was not determined immediately.

James Miles, assistant plant manager, said the first blast occurred in the nitro glycerine house about 10:30 a.m. two more blasts followed within minutes and a fourth rocked the area at 11:27 a.m.

The nitro glycerine house is part of the gelatin products line where liquid is mixed with powder to produce the explosives. The plant makes commercial explosives used in mining, quarrying and construction.

This was the third explosion at the plant since 1947 and the second involving American Cyanamid in the last two weeks.

On June 26, a truck operated by the firm exploded on a highway at Marshalls Creek, Pa., in the Poconos, killing six persons and releasing hundreds of snakes from a snake farm.

A blast in June, 1947, at the plant killed two and injured eight. In December, 1956, five were injured in another explosion.

Only ambulance crews and fire fighters were permitted in the area and all traffic was blocked off. The residents of Edinburg on the fringe of the plant were evacuated.

The building where the blasts occurred was constructed so that the walls would fall outward to relieve the force of the explosion. However, the intensity was so great that Mrs. Julia Sperdute, 50, and Mrs. Rose Galamski, 34, were injured in their homes nearby.

Those injured:

At Jameson Memorial Hospital in New Castle, Harry Smith of Edinburg, fair condition; Donald Stelter of West Pittsburgh, released; Loyal Smith of Ellwood City, released; Chester Hoover of New Castle, fair condition; Harold Barry of New Castle, serious condition; and James Snyder of New Castle, released.

At St. Francis Hospital in New Castle, Mrs. Sperdute, of Edinburg, fair condition; Mrs. Galamski of Edinburg, fair condition; and George Suzow of South New Castle Borough, fair condition.

Sec. Udall Backs Tocks Area Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A cabinet member, a senator, and state officials urged Monday speedy congressional action to create a Tocks Island National Recreation Area in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall told a Senate interior public lands subcommittee that the importance of prompt action cannot be overemphasized. He added:

"Delay can only result in burgeoning costs, loss of our opportunity to coordinate with the corps of engineers in land acquisition and development, and prolonged uncertainty for the political subdivisions, property owners and other citizens of the area involved."

Udall, pointing out the proposed recreation area would be at the already-authorized Tocks Island dam and reservoir, said it is imperative the two proposed developments should be carried out on a time schedule.

Goddard Testifies

Maurice K. Goddard, Pensylvania secretary of forests and waters, testifiedl the eastern United States needs the proposed recreation area along the planned 35-mile lake in "one of the most beautiful natural scenic areas in the east."

Super cities have been forming in the United States, he said and "the largest of these is the Atlantic area stretching from Bangor, Maine, to Norfolk, Va.

"The proposed Tocks Island national recreation area is located near the center of this vast complex of people and industry, and, if authorized and properly developed, it could be considered as the central park of the super city."

H. Mal Adams, alternate New Jersey member of the Delaware River Basin Commission and a spokesman for Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, said his state is more enthusiastic than ever for the plan first advanced several years ago.

Worthington Tract

"New Jersey owns some 6,100 acreas of virtually virgin land, known as the Worthington Tract partially equipped for camping and hiking, adjacent to the projected Tocks Island dam downstream along the east bank of the Delaware and wholly within the planned boundry of the recreation area," Adams said.

WASHINGTON — Frank W. Dressler, executive director of the Water Resources Assn. of the Delaware River Basin, said after the hearings that an Army Corps of Engineers land acquisition cost study is proving a "real bottleneck" to action this year on Tocks Island Recreation Area bills.

Land cost estimates ranging from $17.3 million in 1959 to $39 million in 1964, have been presented to Congress by the Army Corps.

At House Interior Committee hearings June 8 and 9, the Corps was asked for a more thorough and definite study of land acquisition costs and recreation area boundaries.

The Corps said it needs three months for such a study and does not now have funds to do it.

Dressler said Senator Alan Bible, chairman of the Senate Interior Committee supports the recreation area, but wants a firm land cost estimate before Senate action on the bill.

Life Residence

Dressler also reported Bible favors the "Cape Cod formula" under which residents of the recreation area are given the privilege of life occupancy, if their house or property use is compatable with recreation area development. He said he also favors the idea.

Senator Bible was reported anxious to conduct an on-site tour of the proposed recreation area in late July or early August after Republican members of his committee return from their national convention in San Francisco.

Earthquake Hits Mexican States

MEXICO CITY (AP) — An earthquake shook Mexico City and caused deaths and heavy damage in the Pacific coastal state of Guerrero in the early morning darkness Monday. Damage to the Mexican capital was slight.

The chief of state police in Chilpancingo, capital of Guerrero, 100 miles southwest of Mexico City, said he received unofficial reports of 19 persons killed in his mountainous state.

Unconfirmed Reports

Unconfirmed reports reaching government sources in Mexico City estimated the death toll at more than 40, with hundreds more injured.

The Mexico City afternoon newspaper Ultimas Noticas said its correspondent in Chilpancingo reported at least 45 killed in several Guerrero villages.

Commandante Angel Rosales Arana said a report of 18 killed came from the village of Coyuca de Catalan.

He said the village of Arcelia was also damaged and he knew the wife of the municipal president there was killed.

Flies To Area

The governor of the state, Raymundo Abarca Calderon, flew to the stricken area in the Sierra de Guerrero mountain range.

The police chief said the earthquake occurred at 1:23 a.m. Monday morning, the same time strong tremors were felt in Mexico City.

The famous coastal resort of Acapulco, in Guerrero State 175 miles southwest of Mexico City, was reported to have felt the quake but no serious damage or casualties were caused there.

Gov. To Name Chester Unit

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton intends to appoint a citizens committee "within the next few days" to study the Chester racial situation, the governor's office announced Monday.

The commission would be asked to conduct a survey "of all facts available" and report their recommendations back to Scranton no later than Sept. 1, the announcement said.

Chester Negroes have charged demonstrations there this spring.

Papandreou Rejects LBJ's Cyprus Talks

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Greek Premier George Papandreou has rejected President Johnson's suggestion for Greek-Turkish talks on the Cyprus issue, a Greek government spokesman said Monday night.

Papandreou's message, replying to a request from Johnson last week, is expected to be delivered to the White House Tuesday, the spokesman said in Athens.

Turkey was understood to have been willing to hold direct talks with Greece to try to settle the strife of the Greek Cypriot majority and the Turkish minority on this Eastern Mediterranean island.

President Johnson had four days of separate talks with Papandreou and Turkish Prime Minister Ismet Inonu at the White House at the end of June. The Cyprus crisis is a threat to the southern end of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance, of which Greece and Turkey are members.

Bangor To Start Planning; 1,000 Stadium Seats Voted

BANGOR — Leonard Gruppo, chairman of the Bangor Planning Commission, presented a proposed program of comprehensive planning to members of the Bangor Borough Council last night.

Council accepted the program and authorized application for federal and state funds to activate the program. According to statistics given, planing will cost $12,825. The state and Federal governments will suppy $8,550 and the borough $4,275.

Park Progress

A report on progress at the Bangor Memorial Park was made by Gilmore Strunk. Upon his recommendation council authorized an expenditure of approximately $25,000 to erect approximately 1,000 additional seats in the stadium.

Strunk had previously reported that the Bangor Area School District had agreed to a contract to use the facilities for the next 15 years.

At the same time council named Donald B. Keat, former superintendent of schools and a member of the planning commission and Councilman Samuel Hicks to serve on a committee to investigate planned garbage disposal with surounding communities.

John Cascioli, council president, in company with John De Vito, council member, registered complaints about sidewalks currently being laid in the construction of Market St.

The two men were authorized by council to consult with the contractor on the problem.

A group of Washington Twp. residents represented by Gene Zelenka appeared before council to complain about odors of the sewage plant. After hearing their comments, council invited the resident to meet with council jointly with Mast Enginering Co. of Reading, consultants for the plant.

Roderick Everett gave a report on the Bangor Water Co. in which he indicated a committe of council is constantly surveying the activities of the water company in supplying water to the borough.

He noted that during the latter part of 1963 and early 1964 the company had pumped some 47 million gallons of quarry water for borough use.

Council instructed the committee to continue its vigilance.

Samuel Hicks, chairman of the finance committee, reported that the new borough garbage and the new fire truck have been paid for in full.

The resignation of Elwood Parsons, first ward councilman, was accepted by council with regret. It was agreed by members of council that his successor will be named at the August meting.

Daniel Phillips, chairman of the sewer committee, reported account after payment of $5,- a balance of $10,689.85 in the 445 for the semi-annual lease. Mayor Quintus LaBar reported the following collections:

License, $77.50; fines, $163; building and digging permits, $8; parking meters, $786.12 for a total of $1,034.62. Sherwood Evans, treasurer, reported the following balance: general fund, $50,495.16; state highway fund, $12,075.49; bills of approximately $6,200 were approved for payment.

Barry Maps Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, mapping strategy for his final drive in the race for the Republican presidential nomination, said Monday he has an open mind on possible running mates. He added he is seeking the advice of his congressional supporters.

Informal Interview

Goldwater, in an informal interview outside his Senate office, insisted he is not even leaning toward any potential partner on the GOP ticket.

But he indicated he is leaning away from Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, now his chief rival for the top spot on the ticket.

"Frankly," he said, "after the things he has said about me, I don't know how either of us would be comfortable running with the other."

Two names on his list of prospects, the senator said, are Rep. Gerald R. Ford Jr. of Michigan and Rep. William E. Miller of New York.

But Goldwater denied accounts that picture him as favoring Miller for the vice-presidential nomination. "I don't know how that got started," he said.

Goldwater said he has not talked with anybody about joining him on the ticket if he wins the nomination.

"I haven't asked anybody and I won't until I get proper advice," he said.

The senator said he has talked to some of his supporters in Congress, including Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona and asked them to think about possible choices for the vice-presidential spot.

Slipped Away

Goldwater conferred in his Senate office with Denison Kitchel, his campaign director, then slipped away for an afternoon of relaxation.

An aide said they talked about organization and communications at the Republican National Convention opening next Monday in San Francisco.

Goldwater will fly there Thursday and appear before the GOP platform committee Friday.

He got back to Washington at 4 a. m. after a weekend at his Phoenix home. Goldwater went from Phoenix to Las Vegas in his own plane, then flew in an Air Force jet to Washington.

Dr. Milton Eisenhower

Scranton Storms Illinois

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton Monday named Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, brother of the former president, to nominate Scranton for president at the Republican National Convention San Francisco next week.

Scranton said Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University, was his first choice to make the nominating speech.

But the Pennsylvania governor hinted broadly that he has the unannounced support of Dwight D. Eisenhower in Scranton's bid to overtake and pass front-running Sen. Barry Goldwater for the nomination.

"I am delighted and pleased to announce that Dr. Milton Eisenhower will nominate me at San Francisco, and, yes; Gen. (Dwight D.) Eisenhower knows about this and is equally pleased," Scranton told a news conference.

Comes To Illinois

Scranton came to Illinois Sunday night to begin a stops-out campaign for public support aimed at swinging the Illinois delegation away from Goldwater. Last week 48 members of the 58-vote delegation indicated they would give Goldwater first-ballot support. Eight were uncommitted, and two passed making a choice.

The governor shook hands with commuters at the Chicago & Northwestern Railway station Monday morning and attempted to address a shopping center rally. However, a sudden thunderstorm washed out the shopping center visit.

Rep. Laird Concedes Rights Fight Brews

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gov. William W. Scranton, trying urgently to halt Sen. Barry Goldwater's drive toward the Republican presidential nomination, Monday night promised a showdown fight over the GOP platform.

Scranton said Republicans should say the new civil rights law is constitutional, and that they should denounce, by name, the John Birch Society.

Moves Obvious

Both moves were obviously calculated as an attempt to embarrass Goldwater. The Arizona senator voted against the civil rights bill, saying he thought two sections of it are unconstitutional, and he has declined to repudiate the John Birch group.

If Scranton's move alarmed Goldwater supporters, they didn't show it.

Scranton's proposals came at a time when the senator's backers had taken over the entire 15th floor of the swank Mark Hopkins Hotel as a command post.

"We are highly optimistic," Richard Kleindienst, co-director of Goldwater's field operations, said.

Political Magic

Scranton hopes to knock a hole in that optimism. He's trying to cash in on the political magic of the Eisenhower name — he chose Milton Eisenhower to nominate him at the convention starting a week from Monday—and he's attempting to stir up ordinary Republican voters.

George Truax, one of Scranton's top backers, told newsmen that Goldwater's delegate count, more than enough to cinch the nomination, "in no way reflects the desire of the average Republican for a presidential candidate."

Scranton's strategy, Truax said, is to convince GOP voters Goldwater can't possibly beat President Johnson in November.

Although there were the usual rumors of delegates about ready to switch, the scoreboard continued to give Goldwater an awesome edge.

Count Pledges

The Associated Press count of pledges and expressed preferences showed 710 votes for Goldwater—with 655 needed to nominate—146 for Scranton, 105 for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, and 45 for Henry Cabot Lodge, now busily beating the drums for Scranton.

Scranton has his work cut out for him—and knows it. "I'm the underdog," he told audiences as he went vote hunting in Illinois. "I'm accustomed to that."

Other developments Monday:

—Sen. Goldwater, in Washington, said he still has an open mind on whom he would like to be his vice-presidential running mate.

—Rep. William E. Miller of New York, national chairman of the party, said that he would accept the vice-presidential spot if asked, but that Goldwater hadn't asked him. Both Goldwater and Miller mentioned Rep. Gerald R. Ford Jr. of Michigan as another possibility.

—Clare Boothe Luce, former congresswoman from Connecticut, gave the platform committee a report from the critical issues council. As made public on a piecemeal basis in advance, it was sharply critical of President Johnson and the Democrats on everything from civil rights to moon flights.

Civil Rights Fight

—Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the platform committee, finally conceded he doesn't see any way to avoid a fight over civil rights.

Possibly the best illustration of how the delegate hunt is going—or rather, how it has gone—was supplied by the activities of the candidates themselves.

With only a week to go, when usually the battling is furious, here's Goldwater, being interviewed casually outside his Senate office. His only comment on his opponent was to say he didn't think much of a suggestion that Scranton should be his running mate.

"Frankly," Goldwater said, "after the things he has said about me, I don't know how either of us would be comfortable running with the other."

Lodge Unprofitable In Kansas

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge wound up a day of campaigning in Kansas Monday without any apparent progress in wining support for the Republican presidential nomination of Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton.

Only three of the state's 20 delegates to the nominating convention, and three alternates turned up to hear Lodge, and none of the six made any commitment to vote for Scranton.

Lodge said he was placing his hope in the expectation that his public appearances here would induce Kansas Republicans to urge the delegates to support Scranton.

At an earlier news conference Lodge declared that it is wishful thinking to say that the nomination is all locked up by Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater. He said many people were going to be surprised at San Francisco.

Later, at a luncheon speech to some 400 Scranton supporters, Lodge stressed the importance of electing a GOP candidate who would not divide the country and who would not be imprudent in the conduct of the country's foreign policy.

Nixon Picked To Unify GOP

SAN FRANCISCO (AP — Richard M. Nixon got the assignment Monday of rallying GOP forces into a unified body after they get through their infighting at the Republican National Convention beginning July 13.

Rep. William E. Miller of New York, Republican national chairman, announced a significant change in the convention program.

Originally, Nixon, former vice president and near-winner of the presidency in 1960, had been scheduled to speak to this convention Tuesday night, July 14.

But now, Miller announced, Nixon has "been rescheduled to speak Thursday, July 16, to introduce to the convention its nominee for president of the United States."

As things stand, most people expect that man to be Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Divers Come Topside After 2-Day Ordeal

MIAMI, Fla (AP) — Two happy young divers who made history by living and working for two days and nights 430 feet down on the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean said Monday: "we could have stayed two weeks."

The adventure of Jon Lindbergh, 37, and Robert Stenuit, 30, ended Monday after a 94-hour ordeal in the cramped confines of a decompression chamber on the deck of the research vessel, Sea Diver.

"We felt fine all the time," said Lindbergh, handsome son of Charles A. Lindebergh, who does pioneer work under the sea as his famous father did in the air.

Everything Worked

All equipment worked perfectly, Lindbergh said, and the experiment proved that men can live and operate at great depths for extended periods.

Edwin A. Link, 60, a pioneer of underwater research who directed the project, said this means that a new era of exploration has opened on the world's continental shelves.

Link immediately began planning for dives to the 600-foot level, probably in November, and says this will open an area for oil, mineral and other prospecting on an area of the continental shelves as large as Africa.

Lindbergh and Stenuit, Belgian author and explorer, rode a pressurized elevator to the bottom at 1:15 p.m. last Tuesday, near Great Stirrup Cay in the Bahamas.

Occasional Swim

Until 2:20 p.m. Thursday they made their home in an inflatable rubber chamber 9 by 4 feet in diameter, occasionally swimming out to do photographic work.

Red Grenade Misses Its Mark

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A Communist terrorist hurled a grenade at the U.S. Embassy Monday on the eve of the arrival of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor as the new U.S. ambassador. The grenade failed to go off because the grenade-thrower fumbled the job.

Strict security measures were expected to be enforced for Taylor's arrival Tuesday amid indications that the Communist Viet Cong planned a general wave of terror. The Viet Cong radio warned Taylor to stay out of Viet Nam or his life would be in grave danger.

Only the excitement of the Red terrorists saved the embassy building from damage. A demolition expert said the grenade thrower pulled out the entire detonating mechanism instead of just the pin.

The terrorist, who witnesses said was dressed in white trousers and shirt, got away.

Eisenhower Sees Big Vote Switch

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, named Monday to nominate Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania at the Republican national convention, said there could be "a great switch" of delegates from Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

"As I understand it, fewer than 400 are bound to Sen. Goldwater by primary or convention," Dr. Eisenhower told a news conference.

"All the others have expressed a preference. The press says President Johnson will be elected if Sen. Goldwater is nominated.

"If this has a real effect on the 300 to 400 not legally pledged there could be a great switch."

Dr. Eisenhower, Dwight Eisenhower's younger brother and president of Johns Hopkins University, termed Gov. Scranton "keenly intelligent, wise, judicious and courageous."

Bill Works Hard On Vote Quest

By Richard L. Graves
Associated Press Writer

on Tour with Scranton, (AP) —Early each morning as Gov. Scranton's campaign plane gets airborne for a new day's delegate hunting, an unctuous voice says through the address system:

"Good morning. We want to welcome you aboard. We hope you enjoy your flight."

Then the voice adds:

"On the back of the seat in front of you is a card showing emergency exits. We suggest you read it."

For those having traveled with Scranton since early June, the voice has become symbolic of the Governor's against-the-odds fight—or is it flight?—for the Republican presidential nomination.

Why?

Metallic Voice

Because, like the metallic voice, the Scranton campaign daily waxes optimistic, but at the same time braces for the crash it says won't come.

Take Illinois. That state's GOP delegates indicated in a poll they would give 48 of their 58 first ballot votes to Sen. Barry Goldwater. None indicated they would back Scranton.

Trouble for Scranton?

Not on your life. He said the next day the poll was sort of a victory because he personally had expected 54 Illinois delegates to go for Goldwater.

To date the Governor has taken his delegate safari into half of the nation's 50 states. Miles travelled—about 20,000 since he announced his candidacy June 12 in Baltimore.

Aside from run-of-the-mine politics, these are some impressions:

Bands—the best are in the south.

Jazz Combo

Atlanta featured an enthusiastic jazz combo that seemed oddly out of place in the bright sunshine of the city airport. There was another jazz combo in Chicago, but that group appeared to have an average age of 13. They called themselves the Dixie Kats and did a real nice gut-bucket Pennsylvania Polka.

Scranton, himself, moved into the middle of the Young High School band in Knoxville and demanded a tune.

The white-uniformed kids, delighted at that unexpected attention, formed a circle around him and ripped off a horns, drums and cymbals version of the "Young Gauchos."

Campaign buttons — with one exception, candidates' campaign buttons are tired, old repeats of the things that supporters favored way back when.

The exception is the exquisite button of U.S. Sen. Margarget Chase Smith, Ovalshaped, it features an abstract rose and an almost unrecognizable feminine autograph of the Maine solon.

Signs — as usual, signs show more imagination than buttons in campaigns.

One Scranton booster carried a sign saying "Happiness is a warm delegate."

Another sign showed a row of circles and one square. The caption under the square was "I will not vote for Scranton.'

Viet Cong Beaten Off; Two Americans Killed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Fighting with their backs to flaming barrackse, 300 government troops beat off waves of Communist Viet Cong guerrillas making a savage assault Monday on a U. S. special forces camp in the central highlands. Casualties on both sides ran high, with two Americans killed and four wounded among them.

U.S. officers called the defense of the camp at Nam Dong a magnificent show of courage by the government defenders and a platoon of women nurses who treated the wounded under fire and crawled along the ground to strip the dead of needed first-aid kits. Several nurses were reported wounded.

Reds Launch Attack

The Reds launched the attack under cover of a barrage of white phosphorous mortar shells that set camp buildings ablaze.

The defenders lost 60 dead, including the Americans and an Australian military adviser, and about 5 wounded.

Americans at Nam Dong reported they had counted 4 Viet Cong dead hung in grotesque shapes on the barbed wire around the camp.

Most of the defenders were Chinese Nung tribesmen, who fled into South Viet Nam when the nation was divided with the Communists in 1954.

A U.S. adviser said the defenders hit the charging Viet Cong with blistering mortar and 57mm fire, "scattering them into the air like chaff" outside the camp 30 miles west of the coastal city of Da Nang.

Five Hour Fight

Much of the five hours of fighting was hand to hand between the inner and outer perimeters of the mountain camp built 18 months ago of logs and thatching.

The two U.S. dead brought the toll of U.S. 9 combat fatalities since late 161 to 151, with two others missing and presumed dead. Ninety-six other Americans have died in accidents in South Viet Nam.

The attack was the second major assault by the Viet Cong on special forces camps in three days. On Saturday the Viet Cong overran a camp at Polei Krong, killing 45 Vietnamese and wounding two Americans before the defenders pulled out. Polei Krong is about 225 miles south of Nam Dong.

A camp at Tay Ninh has been under severe harassment in recent weeks. There are about 40 U.S. special forces camps in South Viet Nam.

500 Guerrillas

The assault on Nam Dan involved about 500 Viet Cong guerrillas. It opened at 2:30 a.m. with intensive mortar fire, which included phosphorous shells that set wooden camp buildings afire. Fires were blamed for the deaths of some of the government troops who were sleping when the attack started.

Under cover of the mortar fire, about Viet Cong troops charged down a mountain valley and up to the barbed wire perimeter. Two broke through the defenses into the camp but were quickly mowed down by the defenders.

As the Viet Cong reached the outer barbed wire perimeter, the Vietnamese loosed their heavy mortars and 57mm guns, but the attack didn't let up.

In two hours, the Viet Cong had worked into the inner perimeter and challenged the camp itself. But the government forces fought the harder, and by 6:30 a. m. the Viet Cong pulled back, hauling their wounded with them.

Ike Declines Comment On Scranton Campaign

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower refrained from comment Monday on new developments in Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

At the same time, his office in Gettysburg outlined the former chief executive's travel plans to the GOP national convention opening next week in San Francisco.

Eisenhower has maintained a steadfast position of public neutrality in the campaign between Scranton and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

However, Scranton announced in Chicago Monday that Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the former president's brother, had agreed to nominate him at the convention.

Scranton said he informed Eisenhower of the development and represented the general as being pleased with the information.

Sunday, Scranton told a news conference in Harrisburg that Eisenhower had registered surprise that the American people did not know which candidate the general favored.

No Comment

An aide said no comment on either development was contemplated at this time.

Meanwhile, Eisenhower's travel schedule calls for his party of six, including Mrs. Eisenhower and his military aide, Brig. Gen. Robert Shulz (Ret.), to leave Harrisburg by train Thursday evening.

They will board a private railway car in Harrisburg which will be attached to a Pennsylvania Railroad train leaving for Chicago at 9:08 p.m.

Eisenhower's car is due in Chicago at 9 a.m. (CDT) Friday morning. The car will be switched to a special "caucus train" of Republican leaders leaving Chicago at 4 p.m. Friday. The special train is due to arrive in San Francisco at 1:30 p.m. (PDT) Sunday.

Illinois Congresswoman Faces Election Opposition

CHICAGO (AP)—Rep. Charlotte Reid, the only woman in Illinois' 24-member House delegation to Congress, faces a woman opponent in her re-election campaign this year.

"As far as I know, it's the only House contest between women," she says.

Mrs. Reid, 51, a Republican, is serving her first term in the office for which her late husband, Frank Reid Jr., an Aurora, Ill., attorney was nominated. He died sudenly, and she was persuaded to succeed him as candidate. She won the election handily, besting a male opponent by better than 3-2 margin in 1962.

Her Democratic challenger is Mrs. Poppy X. Mitchell of Ottawa, 46, a housewife who has never run for political office but has plenty of experience as a platform speaker, especially in bond drives during World War II.

Despite Mrs. Reid's showing two years ago, both women expect this year's contest to be a real scrap—even if ladylike.

"I have never met my opponent, but I don't feel complacent—I never do when I am in a contest," said Mrs. Reid, in a telephone interview from her Washington office.

"For me, it's an uphill struggle, I know," says Mrs. Mitchell. "But I am not a sacrificial lamb. I intend to win the election."

12 Orphaned Children Will Live With Relatives

RONKONKOMA, N.Y. (AP)—How do you break up a family of 12 orphaned children?

In the case of the dozen Plume youngsters, left fatherless and motherless by a car collision, relatives are determined that no such thing will take place.

The children fortunately have a large number of aunts, uncles and other relatives living in the immediate vicinity. They quickly decided that the youngsters will be taken into their own homes so they can grow up in close contact with each other.

"We've had offers from all over from people wanting to take care of them," said one of the uncles, Sgt. Roy E. Plume of the Suffolk County Police.

"But we have a big family—on both their mother's and father's sides—and it has been decided on both sides that we will definitely not let the children be broken up or taken apart from each other."

Sgt. Plume said it might be necessary for the children to live with various relatives, but that the relatives reside so close to each other it will be almost as if the youngsters are living together at home.

The six boys and six girls range in age from 8 months to 17 years.

Scout Councils May Test Camp Tax Law In Courts

STROUDSBURG — Meeting with the Monroe County Commissioners in executive session yesterday, representatives of four Eastern Pennsylvania Boy Scout Councils hinted they would take their 1964 tax assessments to court, according to commisioner Stuart Pipher.

The camp first appealed the assessments to the commisioners in April, and had been turned down on mot of their objections to taxable acreage and buildings.

The next remedy, according to solicitor Russell Mervine, is court action.

Secret Session

The executives from Bethlehem Area Council, Wyoming Council in Wilkes-Barre, Lehigh Council in Allentown, and Valley Forge Council, requested the secret meeting.

It was held yesterday afternoon in courtroom two of the county courthouse, with chief assessor C. A. Nauman, deputy assessor Robert Stem, and Atty. Leo Achterman, who is helping Mervine with tax appeals, in attendance.

Pipher also said that the Valley Forge Council appealed its 1965 assessment at the meeting, and that the commissioners will decide its disposition on Thursday.

Legal Loopholes

"It's just as well these appeals are going into court," Pipher said after the meeting, "so we can see just where the law applies. There are too many loopholes in Act 295."

Act 295 is the law whereby taxing bodies can levy assessments on tax-exempt organizations for any land or buildings not used expressly for the purposes of the organizations. It was passed last year by the state legislature and sponsored by State Rep. Van D. Yetter of Marshalls Creek.

The chief assessor has been following the rule of the law in exempting only that land directly used for Boy Scout activities at the camps. Woodlands with trails and campsites are not exempt.

Buildings are not exempt if used by a caretaker. "A caretaker could just as easily live elsewhere," said Atty. Mervine at previous hearings.

Nauman, who has been holding to the letter of the law, felt that the Boy Scouts were trying to take too much land from Monroe County assessment rolls.

Scout Responsibility

"Boy Scout activities are not only camping and hiking, but include the teaching of responsibility," Nauman said. "The Boy Scouts are not being responsible in trying to get everything out of the county they can."

The assessments which might go to court are:

Lehigh Council — 560 taxable acres, 100 exempt acrse, with an asseessed value of $5,600, plus a building assessed at $3,500.

Bethlehem Area Council—two tracts of land. One with 63 taxable acres and 200.8 exempt acres, plus a 110-acre exempt lake, totaling $700 in assessment. There is also $1,000 on a building in this tract. The second tract contains 1,058 taxable acres and 84 taxable acres of lake for an assessment of $31,450.

Wyoming Council—two tracts. One with 100 taxable and 84 exempt acres totaling $850 in assessed value; the other four taxable acres with $100 assessed value plus $1,900 on a building.

Valley Forge Council— 3,467 taxable acres, 400 exempt acres, totaling $48,550 in assessment, plus buildings assessed at $8,300.

The appeal to be decided Thursday for 1965 assessment is for Valley Forge on 141 taxable acres at $1,450 assessment.

worried about age?
here's truth about hormones for face, neck and hands

NEW YORK (Special):—Reams have been written about hormones. Will they make women of 75 look 16 again? Absolutely not. Will they make women of 60 feel like they were 20 again?

To know the truth about hormones you need to learn just two simple facts: (1) The beauty of a woman's skin starts breaking down as signs of age begin, because the female organs fail to supply enough estrogenic hormones to feed the skin—less and less as you grow older. (2) Estrogenic hormones can be supplied to the skin by rubbing on a penetrating formula containing the hormones.

Here is a test reported in a scientific journal, one of many that showed similarly sensational results: Twenty-five women applied hormones to one side of the face and neck, and to one hand. On the other side and the other hand, a similar preparation containing no hormones was applied the same way.

These are the reports in simple words:

Skin lines (or dry-skin wrinkles) quickly dimmed or disappeared from sight as creases and hollows filled out.

Blotches and "old-age freckles" faded on hands, face and neck.

Skin was softer, clearer, seemed to lose its chronic dryness and take on a revived freshness and vitality.

All these amazing things happened on the side where the hormones were used. Meanwhile no comparable changes occurred on the other side. The same withered, lifeless complexion.

Now to select a good estrogenic hormone preparation, here is what you need to know: the strength of the hormone preparation must appear on the label! The recommended monthly allotment for the skin is 20,000 International Units.

The base should be as rich as possible in penetrating Sesame Oil and moisturizing Lanolin and when "rubbed in" your skin should not feel greasy or sticky. On first application, your skin should feel a radiant glow of revitalized youthfulness and refreshment.

An extra good buy in hormone products today is a preparation called HORMONEX Beauty Serum. It is made by a trustworthy 50-year-old laboratory.

It is inexpensive to use. A 100-day supply costs only $3.50. Look younger quickly. See these dry-skin wrinkles smooth out, starting today! You may obtain Hormonex Beauty Serum at:

Disaster Generosity

The immediate and surprisingly large public response to the Marshalls Creek Disaster Fund started by Radio Station WVPO is a tribute to the generosity of Pocono Mountain residents, businessmen and visitors.

The fund was started Friday, June 26, not long after the truck explosion on Rt. 209 which killed three Marshalls Creek volunteer firemen and three passersby.

Within a week pledges telephoned, mailed and given verbally reached $43,633—an amazingly large amount of money for this community to raise in such a short time.

Even more surprising was the immediate honoring of most of the pledges. By week's end, there was $43,211 in the bank, with more expected as pledges come in.

The campaign was marked by the urgent feeling of neighbors and strangers anxious to help, not knowing how to help, and finding the disaster fund the only way to express their sympathy.

The hundreds of small gifts received by the WVPO fund testify to the broad community support the disaster evoked.

The many people who contributed small and large amounts themselves, the many groups and organizations which pledged substantial gifts, the children who put on carnivals and sold lemonade in the heat should be thanked for their good will and congratulated for their generosity.

Above all, the seven-man committee which faces the difficult task of allocating the funds to those in need should be thanked by the whole community for the time and effort it will put into its job.

The committee members are Jesse D. Pierson, chairman; Mrs. Harold S. Pond, secretary; Joseph Lisicky, treasurer; Dr. LeRoy Koehler, Stuart Pipher, the Rev. Harold Eaton; and Atty. Arlington Williams.

It did not take long for the hundreds who contributed to bring their money to the radio station or mail a check. But it will require many hours of careful investigation and study for the committee to decide how and to whom the disaster funds will be contributed.

When the job is done, this community can take great pride in its uncommon generosity.

Watch That 'Fiscal Drag'

A new economic brainchild or trial balloon from Washington appeared in the Sunday New York Times.

The idea would be for the federal government to distribute automatically and without strings attached a part of the federal surplus expected in a few years if the economy continues to expand.

It is described by the New York Times with approbation as "an idea that could become the next major breakthrough in United States economic and social policy."

The argument against a government surplus, it is said, is "a fiscal drag" on the county. By the rules of liberal economics, a budget surplus can be a bad thing if it occurrs before full employment and a generally healthy economy is reached.

A surplus of tax revenues over government spending can become "a fiscal drag," it is argued. So the problem for liberal economists is to find some way to fight a federal budget surplus. The easiest way is of course to give it away —by increased federal spending or by the new method of gifts to state governments.

Before this "fiscal drag" problem becomes too much of a headache to the economic planners in Washington, we suggest that they take another look at the possibilitity of further federal tax cuts.

Why drag all that "fiscal drag" to Washington and then have to drag it all the way back to each state when you can leave the money in taxpayer and corporation pockets in the first place?

This is one trial balloon we hope is

High federal taxes do not have to

Hig hfederal taxes do not have to remain forever. As soon as they provide necessary federal income and balance the federal budget, excess tax money should force another tax cut or be applied against the federal debt.

Comment Of The Day

"Among honorable services rendered to others, few are classed above those of volunteer firemen. Our services are not rendered for our personal benefit nor merely for the benefit of our friends, but often for persons whom we scarcely know, and sometimes entire strangers, for it is the duty of every fireman to fight to the full extent of his power, every fire within his jurisdiction, whether it is the property of friend, stranger, or foe."

—An excerpt from the volunteer fireman's oath, which takes on special meaning after the death of three Marshalls Creek volunter firemen killed in the truck explosion Friday, June 26.

The LBJ's Are Expected

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON — In the nation's capital are quixotic people who don't like to leave cocktail parties as long as the booze and canapes hold out. Under the 36th President of the United States they have at long last hit upon a sure-fire trick to keep a party going. They start a rumor that the Lyndon B. Johnsons are expected.

The rumor - spreaders then don't have to leave. Virtually nobody leaves. The host and hostess who had counted on being sick of the last of their guests by 8:05, go quietly berserk as the night hours draw to toward morning with scarcely a departure.

The trick seldom fails to work because Washingtonians have become conditioned to the President and Ladybird dropping in almost anywhere.

The scurvy prank is played most frequently by guests, but sometimes by the host. This community has party-givers so masochistic they hate to see a guest leave until they've been eaten and drunk out of house and home.

To make certain the trick doesn't fizzle out, the prankster draws a carefully - selected guest aside and extracts a pledge of secrecy. After the guest has sworn by everything he holds dear not to repeat a word of what is about to be imparted, the trickster whispers:

"Don't tell anyone else — but stick around. The Johnsons are expected!"

Naturally, the secret is spread through the entire assemblage in a matter of seconds. Rumor-spreaders have been richocheted by their own rumor before they could hurry from their dupe back to the bar. They've also been hooked by their own rumor and stayed on hopefully themselves until paralyzed.

The other evening there was a party which I will not identify because it would not be in good taste, and besides, the host is twice my size. It was to be from the conventional 6 to 8. About 7:30 it was beginning to show symptoms of breaking up when suddenly the word was whispered:

"The Johnsons are coming!"

Eight o'clock came. 9 o'clock. 11, midnight — about the only departures were a couple of right-wing Republicans who are publicly committed to Goldwater.

The hanging-on guests didn't even ask where the Johnsons were coming from, although in the elapsed time in this jet age they could have come from East of Suez. It was early morn before the host succeeded in scotching the rumor in time to save the last of his Scotch.

"The Johnsons Are Coming," if set to bagpipe music, would make a bum out of the Campbeels. On hearing it, a flutter hostess rushes to restore her make-up and hide her beagles.

The galling thing is that there's no way of guessing when "The Johnsons are coming" can be ignored. The other evening, after being falsely snagged a couple of times, Senate Majority Whip Hubert Humphrey poohpoohed it, and went home. Five minutes after he left the President showed up.

Conversely, there was this case of a prominent Cabinet wife. She tries to do as much cocktailing for both herself and her husband as her constitution will stand. Getting the whisper that the Johnsons were coming, she dashed for a phone and routed her husband off the golf course. He came a-helling — only to stand around for an interminable time at one of the dullest, most - Johnsonless swilling of the social season.

Rep. J. J. "Jake" Pickle of Texas gave a party the other evening at which the Johnsons dropped in. Congressman Pickle was so tired before Lyndon and Ladybird left soiree he could scarcely keep his eyes open next morning for an impressive ceremony on Capitol Hill at which he was presented with a barrel of dill pickles by a commercial young lady whom the pickle industry had crowned "Miss Pickle."

But "The Johnsons are coming" is an ideal rumor for the hostess with the leastest; and for a caterer who wants to hike the tab

Flamboyant

A new style of architecture was developed in France during the 15th century.

This new style was a modification of the elaborate Gothic arthitecture, which also had originated in France.

The modification was most noticeable in the design of the windows and panels, which were distinguished by wavy tracery, or curves.

The French, noting that the wavy designs resembled flames, called the new architectural style "flamboyant," meaning flamelike.

"Flamboyant" eventually was used to describe anything that, like the architecture, was ornate or ostentatious.

Quote Of A Champ

William Marsh deserves the highest honors a political party bestows on an individual.

The Stroudsburg man who felt the political axe swung by the Republican Party left his job last wek "with no malice toward anyone."

Most persons who get the harpoon whether they are Democrats or Republicans cry so all can hear. Not so Marsh, the brother of Monroe County's District Attorney, James Marsh.

Bill, a Democrat who was appointed to the appeal auditor 2 position by Gov. George Leader in 1956 and carried over during the regime of Gov. David Lawrence, went out like a true champion.

The way Marsh left the post in the State Bureau of Sales and Use Tax added stature to the Democratic Party. Yesterday we overheard some staunch GOP faithful laud the official statement made by Bill in last Friday's paper.

"The guy sure sounded like a professional. No amateur would have bowed so graciously as Marsh. Sometimes I wish we were blessed with some of that character among our flock."

Will shouldn't have trouble getting a first class business under way. He's qualified and knows the auditing business backward and forward.

His most recent quote — no malice toward anyone — should open the doors to clients that otherwise might have gone other ways.

In this day and age of unscrupulous politics and politicians it is unusual to find individuals willing to take their medicine as the book dictates.

Patronage jobs are evil in many respects. However, those who grab the hand that feeds them must look for the same hand to be withdrawn at a moment's notice.

Marsh's swan song, though, showed no bitterness. And that is the way it should be, no matter how hard it hurts.

Sweeping Powers

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Congress is headed for a major battle over the sweeping powers President Johnson is seeking for his "poverty czar."

Scheduled to begin in the House and Senate after the Republican national convention, the "big debate" on the poverty program could have as far-reaching an impact on the coming presidential campaign as the fallout from the new civil rights law.

Aides of Senator Barry Goldwater, who voted against the civil rights bill, say he is ready to oppose the poverty program unless the legislation is drastically changed to curb the powers of the federal government and give state and local governments bigger roles.

Senator Goldwater, leading GOP presidential candidate, will have the full backing of Senate and House Republican leaders on this highly crucial and political vote. They are privately saying President Johnson's program could stir up a "nightmare of trouble" throughout the country rather than stamp out poverty.

The dark heart of this growing GOP opposition centers around the unprecedented authority proposed for the director of the "Office of Economic Opportunity," due to be set up in the White House under the present legislation.

Under the Johnson administration proposal now before the House Rules Committee and the Senate Labor Committee, this office would be run by a "poverty czar" empowered to select the local agencies or private groups to receive funds under the billion dollar poverty program.

This "poverty czar" would also have the tremendous power of setting the criteria on how the money was to be spent, and would be given a free hand to draft rules and regulations governing the operation of a 40,000-member Youth Corps.

Lifting The Lid — A preview of the coming public GOP attack against the President's program was outlined by Representative Peter Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., in his little-noticed testimony before the Senate Labor Committee.

A respected leader of the "moderate" Republicans on the House Labor Committee, Frelinghuysen carried his opposition to the Senate after the Democratic majority in the House committee beat down all GOP attempts to curb the powers of the "poverty czar."

While vigorously supporting federal aid to fight poverty, Frelinghuysen attacked what he termed "the unparalleled powers vested in the director of the Office of Economic Opportunity — the poverty czar."

He bluntly warned that the creation of this powerful new federal position "opens the way for direct federal involvement in the activities of every private organization in every community in the country without the necessity of participation or approval of either state or local government."

Pointing out that "As the bill is now written, there is no role for the local or state governments," Frelinghuysen charged:

"If this bill is enacted the 'poverty czar' would be empowered to pick and choose between private and public agencies in the granting of billions of dollars in federal funds.

"This bill vests in a federal czar both the power of approval of all poverty programs and the more basic power to determine all the criteria for approval. The only authority accorded state governments is the right of a governor to comment on projects carried out in his state. This is so meaningless as to be insulting. Local public officials, however, are not even given this empty courtesy. The relationship is clearly that of master and servant."

Dear Abby

Family Vacations For Families Only

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please save my sanity and tell me if I am wrong. I refused our 17-year-old son permission to invite his 16-year-old girl friend along on our family vacation to the New York World's Fair. (We live in Colorado.)

There seems to be a new fad taking root these days. Parents are trying to "prove" to their teen - aged children that they "trust" them, so they are letting them invite their steadies on family trips.

Our son claims that everybody else is doing it and now he is shamed - faced because his girl has already obtained her parents' approval, and I won't let him ask her. I would like your opinion of this whole idea.

NOT THAT MODERN

DEAR NOT: Picnics and one-day family outings are one thing, but family vacations are for families. I think your judgment was sound. Don't back down. Of all the weak - kneed reasons to do something, that old stand-by "everybody else is doing it" is by far the poorest.

DEAR ABBY: A socially prominent lady in this town is forever handing out those "Y'awll come up and see me sometime" invitations which, of course, don't mean a thing. But what about the propriety of her ringing up my husband at his office and asking if "Y'awll" will come to dinner?

Our home telephone number is in the book, but she has never called me. My husband says, "Oh, what's the difference?" I would appreciate it if you would please tell him (in your column) what the difference is. He thinks I'm jealous because she's a fun-loving, middle - aged widow and not too bad looking.

BATON ROGUE

DEAR BATON: The "difference" is a matter of etiquette. Dinner invitations are properly extended to the wife. Tell your husband that the next time the "socially prominent lady" calls his office with a "Y'awll come to dinner" invitation, he should inform her that if "Y'awll" means both of you, she should call YOU.

DEAR ABBY, I am a young and attractive (I am told) widow. I have put away my engagement diamond and my wedding band and wear no jewelry on my hands whatsoever. It is evident that I am unmarried but for some reason every man I meet assumes that I am a divorcee. I have heard that one can buy a widow's band, which is a plain black enamel ring to be worn on the wedding ring finger to signify widowhood. It would certainly simplify matters for me if you could tell me where I can buy one of these rings.

A WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: I have never heard of a "widow's" band. Don't worry about being regarded as a divorcee. You can straighten out the record with one well-timed sentence.

DEAR ABBY: I now learn from your column that I am "uncouth" and "ill-bred." That is how you described one who carries away the bread and rolls from a restaurant table. I take home the bread and rolls for the birds, so hear this:

Boston (the city of culture, ha!) boasts that it has just poisoned and burned 10,000 city pigeons. If this is culture, I want to be a roughneck. San Francisco, named for St. Francis of Assissi, who loved birds, is also destroying pigeons in droves. And now New York is following suit.

Pigeons are one of God's ideas. They give us pleasure with their beauty and grace in flight. And they are smart. They are able to land on a tiny telephone pole wire, whereas it takes man about 400 acres to make a landing. You sound pretty stuff-shirted to me.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Cause, Treatment Of Shingles

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Shingles is an annoying illness — an illness with several aliases. Technically known as Herpes Zoster, shingles is also called Zona (Greek for girdle), because in some cases a bandlike distribution of blisters circle the body.

Shingles is caused by an infectious virus which produces this painful inflammation of the nerve endings. Usually the small blisters run along the course of the affected nerve.

These blisters, resembling those of chicken pox, become visible after a few days of skin tenderness, a pins-and-needles sensation, fever and a sense of general discomfort.

Can Affect Any Area

Although any part of the body may be affected, the characteristic eruptions occur most frequently on the skin of the chest wall, the thigh, the abdomen and the face.

The disease is communicable and can be transmitted from one person to another by direct contact.

Children are rarely afflicted with Herpes Zoster. The frequency and severity of this disease seems to increase with advancing age.

May Last Months

Shingles may last for a few weeks or even a few months. Treatment is mainly devoted to relieving the discomfort and preventing the contamination and infection of the blisters.

Large doses of Vitamin B taken by mouth are thought to be of value, not as a cure but as a body supplement.

Cortisone and antibiotic ointments are beneficial, but must be used only under professional direction. Immune serum taken from a patient recently recovered from Herpes Zoster is considered to be of some benefit in helping the body combat the disease.

Responds To Cortisone

Shingles now responds dramatically to the early use of large doses of cortisone and ACTH. The painful symptoms can be markedly and quickly relieved if the treatment is begun immediately.

Often patients make the mistake of applying ashesive tape strappings to relieve the early chest pains of shingles. Whatever slight degree of comfort might be obtained from such an adhesive support is far out-balanced by the damage it does.

Healing Delayed

When the adhesive is removed, the protective skin covering is destroyed. As a result, the blisters are likely to be more painful and their healing is delayed.

The viruses of Herpes Zoster, like all other viruses, are under relentless scientific attack. Spurred by the remarkable victories against polio, measles and other infectious diseases, scientists now look forward to the day when there will be a vaccination against all viruses.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medicial problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best

Poet's Corner

A Crowning Search

I scaled the highest mountains,
And sailed the stormtost seas;
I searched the barren wastelands
For my Shangrila of peace.

I shoved thru thickest woodlands,
Traversed the widest streams;
And plod the soggy marshlands
To seek my realm of dreams.

I soared yon blue horizon,
Explored the deepest cave;
And probed the crescent rainbow
To find that calm I crave.

This serene retreat we cherish
Is right within our hold.
If we recognize the blessings
In this peaceful land of gold.

I found my true Utopia
When I quit my futile search,
And peered around about me
In descent from lofty perch

Final Hearing

Officials To Discuss Lincoln Ave. Project

EAST STROUDSBURG — The final public hearing on the redevelopment of the 52-acre Lincoln Ave. urban renewal project in East Stroudsburg will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the East Stroudsburg Area Junior-Senior High School.

The hearing on the $1,715,897 project is being sponsored by the Monroe County Commissioners and the Borough of East Stroudsburg, in conjunction with the Redevelopment Authority of Monroe County, the agency responsible for the project.

The authority is proposing that the area be redeveloped from its present commercial-residential use to a commercial and industrial area.

The project site is adjacent to the Stroudsburg - East Stroudsburg bridge and is bounded by the Brodheads Creek, Brown St., the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad tracks and Interstate Rt. 80. Lincoln Ave. runs through the area.

Property owned by the Redmond Finishing Co., located within the project's boundaries, will not be acquired by the authority. Land and buildings on this property will, however, be subject to codes and regulations adopted by the authority.

107 Households

A total of 107 household and five businesses will be affected by redevelopment. The affected families will be relocated within 24 months of the project's starting date.

The authority's urban renewal plan and redevelopment proposal shows the displaced families will require 116 units or rooms for private sales and 366 units or rooms for private rentals.

A breakdown of the project's costs shows—property asquisition, $782,106; survey and planning and project administration, $323,405; demolition and site clearance, $54,063; and site improvements, including street improvements, utility adjustments and supporting facilities, $556,232.

The redevelopment area will be restricted to commercial and industrial uses.

Permitted commercial uses will include, automotive sales and service businesses, major entertainment facilities, laundering and dry cleaning plans and delivery and distribution centers.

The industrial area — which will be the major portion of the project—will include small machine woodworking and sheet metal shops, wholesale businesses and warehousing, truck terminals and the manufacture, assembly or packing of products from previously prepared materials.

After the property is acquired the authority will control building in the area for a period of 30 years.

Authority controls will include:

—Buildings cannot exceed 50 per cent of developed property.

—Commercial buildings cannot exceed 30 feet or two stories; industrial buildings cannot exceed 45 feet or two stories.

—Twenty feet will be required between buildings and rear lot lines.

—Off street loading berths and parking facilities will be required.

Signs To Be Controlled

—The erection of signs will be strictly controlled. No signs will be allowed within 660 feet of Interstate Rt. 80.

The authority will require the following improvements to the Redmond plant:

—Wooden windows, frames and sills shall be repaired or replaced.

—Cupolas shall be repaired or removed.

—Fire resistant fire escapes shall be installed in accordance with the state fire code.

—Loading ramps shall be repaired, reconstructed or replaced.

—The silk storage vault, shall be removed or the foundation, walls and roof shall be repaired or reconstructed in a sound condition.

—The oil storage tank shall be placed underground or shall be enclosed with a suitable planting screen.

—The building used for trapping lint shall be removed or the walls shall be reconstructed and the roof repaired to a sound condition.

State Police Warn Tourists On Bicycles

STROUDSBURG — State police yesterday appealed to resort operators to instruct cyclying guests to use resort pathways for riding, and enjoy a safe vacation.

The anoumcement was made by Lt. Andrew Baigis of the Hazelton state police station. Stroudsburg is a substation of this office.

The request was prompted, Baigis said, because of a near accident in the Marshalls Creek area.

Served vacationing cyclers crossed from one side of Rt. 209 to the other behind a slow-moving truck.

According to Baigis, they rode into the path of a vehicle going in the opposite direction. Baigis said an accident was barely avoided.

Children Raise $55 For Fund

EAST STROUDSBURG — A total of 55.11 was raised for the Marshalls Creek Disaster Fund by 10 children at a carnival at 17 Grand St., East Stroudsburg, last week.

Jacklyn Vollers planed and supervised the event. She was assisted by David Miller, Jr., Daniel Ehrlich, James Palmer, Richard Townsend, Diane Schaller, Judy Ehrlich, Michael Ehrlich, Bobby Townsend, Bobby Beck and Jackie Hafler.

The children operated a refreshment stand, games and sold raffle tickets to collect the money for the disaster fund, according to Mrs. Ehrlich.

Courthouse Basement Ceremony Aug. 8

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners yesterday okayed August 8 as the date for an open house in the new quarters in the courthouse basement.

The basement, almost completed, contains the offices of the Civil Defense, superintendent of schools, and probation office. In case of national attack or disaster, it would be used as an emergency operating center for the CD.

Renovations cost approximately $125,000.

The commissioners met with Marvin Abel and Mrs. Katherine Miller of the CD and with R. M. Hoot of the Pocono Moutains Chamber of Commerce and Eric Schuchard of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

The two groups will supply refreshments for visitors to the new facilities, it was agreed.

Aug. 8 Ceremony

At 10 a.m. on August 8, federal, state and local CD officials, the county commissioners and the county CD council will take a special tour of the facilities.

The group will then eat lunch. Open house for the public will begin at 2 p.m. Civil Defense directors from cities in the state and the 6 counties will be invited. The facilities will be open until 8 p.m.

Kintner Lauded By Rooney

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Pocono area representative in Congress, Fred P. Rooney, inserted congratulations in the Congressional Record to Robert Kintner, president of the National Broadcasting Co. on his twentieth year in broadcasting.

Kintner a native of Stroudsburg, is a former reporter for the Daily Record, and worked as public relations director at The Inn, Buck Hill Falls.

Rooney, in the Congressional Record of July 1, said that Kintner as a young man "earned a reputation for intelligence and hard work which has marked his entire career."

Kintern annually provides a $1,200 scholarship in memory of his late mother, Mrs. Lillian Kintner, to a graduate of Stroud Union High School, Rooney said.

Kitner was the subject of an article in a recent issue of "Variety", entertainment newspaper, which Rooney also inserted in the Congressional Record.

EPILEPSY IS NOW A HOPEFUL DISORDER

Because of many recently perfected new drugs, epileptics can now lead an almost normal life. While most cases are not yet curable, they can be controlled so that work, play, marriage and a normal life span is now not denied. And, medical research scientists predict that in the not too distant future a cure will be discovered.

The treatment of epilepsy requires constant consultation with a physician. His advice, plus these new drugs, keeps it under control. We are carefully reading all reports about its progress and stocking any of the new medicines any physician may prescribe.

Flair, Imagination, "Ho-Ho-Ho" Mark Fall Fashion Showing

By BOBBY WESTBROOK

New York, N.Y. — So what's new besides 'Ho Ho Ho?' The Green Giant has his answers and the nation's fashion press attending the double-decker national press weeks in New York must come up with their own.

The ho-ho-ho's such as yashmak hats for non-smokers with slits to see through; knitted knee socks dyed to match town suits; suits with knickers or trousers for walking the dog, are self evident.

More fundamental anatomical changes are harder to spot. After all, skirts stay short and shorter; waistlines continue to wander; and last year's wardrobe will get by with a shoe string leather belt lashed loosely over that overblouse. The changes are subtle, achieved by long, angular seaming and cropped skirts to emphasize what James Laver, English fashion historian, has called "the erogenous zones," bosom, legs and hips. The removal of inner construction means every curve of the figure shows when you move.

The may be subtle, but they are not ignored — even in international relations or national politics. During the American Deisgner Series, Mrs. B. K. Nehru, wife of the Ambassador of India to the United States, personally entertained fashion editors at a tea at the India Pavilion at the New York World's Fair.

The entire United States Pavilion at the Fair was turned into a television back-drop with U. S. Senator Jacob J. Javits, personally hailing the role of fashion as an art.

Eleanor Lambert, director of the American Designer Series, explained "American designers see fashion in terms of mood as well as mode. You can look romantically pretty, sexy in the James Bond heroine manner, school-girlish, or you can look witty and with it."

The 60-some members of the Council of Fashion Designers of America illustrated all of the ways of looking like a woman and then some for the press and television.

The Coty Fashion Award Luncheon at Delmonico's was just for the press. Eugenia Sheppard, leading fashion columnist, in announcing the winners, pointed out that the jury agreed that 1964 has been a year of "off-beat originality and gayety in dress, coupled with an all-out luxury in personal possessions."

The 1964 winner, Geoffrey Beene, has only had his wholesale dress house in New York for one year, but is one the "witty and with it" school.

Last year's controversial winner, Rudi Gernreich, who added to the masculine ho-ho-ho with his topless bathing suit this summer, has gone to the other extreme for Fall, covering the body completely with no skin showing. He uses matching stockings or tights to focus attention on the legs.

At the press conference about THAT bathing suit, he saw in the 1000 suits ordered the first week of a model never intended for manufacture, "A definite trend toward loosening of Victorian attitudes," and frankly saw no reason for bathing suits at all.

New trends in style are not confined to the young and brash however, with the "old pros" adapting them in their own fashion.

Ceil Chapman has gone in for discotheque dancing dresses (discotheque? that's dancing to records, in English) that are slithery shapes of crepe or matte jersey, always with something special at the top, or evening dresses with very little at the top at all.

Adele Simpson, who had the distinction of receiving with Mrs. Nehru at the India Pavilion, has used the hand-woven, one of a kind Indian sarees as visual proof of that "all-out luxury in personal possessions." Her collection this year is called Kaleidoscope, reflecting the rapid changes a woman must make in world travel or a world of activities. Her day-time dresses are one long sliver, with the movement beginning at the knee in panel or ruffle or flounce.

Oleg Cassini, recovering from the loss of his favorite customer, calls his collection "Renaissance." He gives not only the shirt but also the jacket off his back, softening them with a soft dress shirt bow and softly pleated skirt. His evening dresses are definitely decollete, front or back or both.

The Cassini showing was used to open the enlarged Crystal Palace of Better Living Pavilion at the Fair. He never did get a chance to dance "The Frug," which is what all the Fair photographers were waiting for. But entertaining at a luncheon at the Purex Penthouse before the show, he did serve the same menu served by his mother, Countess Cassini, who was official hostess for her father, The Imperial Russian Ambassador to the Theodore Roosevelt administration.

It started with salmon and caper canapes and champagne, included appetizers of caviar and sour cream, chicken a la Kiev, and a nut and honey pastry for dessert. At Mrs. Nehru's tea at the India Pavilion, there was really tea — India tea, natch — and tea cakes with unidentifiable flavors. One crisp, translucent concoction tasted like oranges and honey.

Mrs. Nehru is a honey, too, with a warm and personal welcome for the press which really got pressed together as they overflowed the dining room, cleared of all tables. She looked enchanting in a pink cotton saree with pulled embroidery. In fact, the saree is an enchanting fashion costume, which you design on yourself, and it hasn't changed in hundreds of years.

But just because a fashion doesn't change doesn't mean that it doesn't cost money to dress. A woman could want a hundred sarees, all woven with gold and silver threads.

And just because television is such a split-second thing on the air, doesn't mean that the Fair-weary press didn't have to wait an hour and a half while they got everything set for taping the one-hour show (on Metro Stations July 6).

CONTROVERSY — Rudi Gernreich, whose topless bathing suits struck the fashion scene with force, continues creating controversy with this brown and black tweed walking suit. Button front tunic tops Mozart pants. Black tights and brown patent pumps finish costume. Model wears black felt fez. Ensemble by Gernreich for G. R. Designs, Inc.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

If you are a bookworm, and I can't think of being anything more enjoyable, you should be in your glory right now. Today, through July 11th, the annual Book Fair of the American Association of University Women is in progress at 762 Main Street. Once again it benefits the scholarship fund, and once again it offers the public a marvelous potpourri of books at a mere fraction of the original, publishers' price.

A friend of mine is always first on hand when doors open at this annual "treat for the bookish," and through the years has picked up some perfectly beautiful, as well as most unusual volumes, covering a widely varied field of interests. She has art books galore . . . books on history . . . and some cook books that are utterly delightful, many of them dating way, way back. Another friend has six old arithmetic books, purchased at similar book fairs throughout the years, and they are his pride and joy.

If you are seeking a book that is no longer published . . . a book devoted to any specific subject . . . a fairly recent book that seemd exorbitantly priced when it hit the best seller list . . . by all means visit the A.A.U.W. Book Fair. If luck is with you, you can renew your library and purchase many happy hours of reading for a little bit of nothing . . . and you'll be assisting a group of very fine women in a highly commendable project.

* * *

Maybe you should carry a tote bag when you browse the Book Fair! We have some marvelous bags in our store that are really cavernous, and greedy to be filled. One practical bag is, of course, a water resistant type ideal for carrying suntan lotion, towel, swim ensemble, and such to the nearest beach. These come in all shapes and colors, one of the most attractive for the younger girl being the Hootenanny. Price is only 1.19. Fashion-wise, it's a howling success; a swingin' sensation with the teen-age crowd . . . Sometimes I overhear shoppers discuss their purchases, and I've noticed that many attractive gray-haired gentlemen and their ladies are purchasing those cute pencils with doll heads (and braids!) to take home as souvenirs from the Poconos to their grandchildren. I heard one woman enthusing to her husband, "Isn't this a real fun store? I love looking around it's just charming." For her unsolicited endorsement she deserves our collective bows and thanks. The nice things she'll say about us far and wide are invaluable —and you can't buy that kind of advertising . . . The other day I was carried away by the beauty of an absolutely precious Vanity Fair bedjacket of Heaven Blue, styled with such a full, flaring set-in sleeve it looked at first glance like a cape. A tiny Peter Pan collar is trimmed with a satin bow upon which a cluster of pink flowers has been embroidered. It is 8.95 and as feminine as you please. More sophisticated, and much more suitable to my own age and size, are the lingerie items from Vanity Fair in their new Brown Feather print. This print is a graceful swirl of russet browns, greens and grays against a darker brown. There is a Blue Feather print too, I understand, but this I have not seen. Pettilegs are 5.95; shift length gown, 8.95; robe, 16.95; briefs (edged with a picoted black braid) 3.00, and pajamas, 10.95. The pajama styling is different, short sleeves are cut right into the pajama top, and then are finished off with a wide, straight band that is all-in-one at the bottom but is then slashed a good six inches or so and bound with black satin. Pajama bottoms are solid black. In the robe, the round, covered butotns are edged in black velvet. As I said before, it is a sophisticated set . . . drama for private moments.

Cy Barrett Says

Tired Of Being Santa?

By Cyrus Barett, Jr.

DEAR CY:

When I tried to collect an overdue bill from an ex-tenant he practicaly threw me down his cellar stairs. We have a furnished duplex apartment we rent to supplement our income. I had to ask this tenant to leave as the rent and utility bills had snow-balled to more than $250, with no payment.

I made the mistake of leaving the utility service in my name when renting to save him making a deposit. I thought this was a neighborly thing to do. Then, when the account owed me for rent and utilities got out of hand, I had to eject the family. What steps can be taken?

JED FAULKNER

DEAR JED:

Topping your "Things to Do Today" list should be "operate Differently With Next Tenant." You should investigate the behavior and credit history of any prospective tenant before permitting ocupancy. Then, insist on prompt payment from the moment he has a key in the lock. Either that or grow a beard and play Santa Claus with enthusiasm.

When a tenant owes his landloard, beginning the second month, it's time to take drastic action. For the renter of property, no-pay is worse than no tenant, so place the matter of eviction in your attorney's lap. In this case, salvage what you can by turning the past due account over to a collection agency. This isn't foolish, and you won't have to justify it as the "neighborly thing to do."

CY

DEAR CY:

How about an idea for a June college graduate working in his first job? My company's sales on its main item have been steady for four or five years, and I would like to suggest new markets. As a new junior executive, I would like your help in selecting a method for locating them.

NEW X.

DEAR NEW X:

Where did you come from? These days, a junior executive expects to know all the answers before he finds a path from the water fountain to his desk.

One way to locate new markets is to analyze uses for present products, in depth. For instance, the men's shirt industry discovered women were wearing its output. The gals were borrowing shirts belonging to Dad and brother Bud for casual or leisure wear.

One after another of the men's shirt companies entered the female shirt market and sales this year will probably bulge to about 25 million dollars. This is no shirttail business relationship. Firms, making shirts for males, started selling to the ladies only nine years ago. P.S. A company which has been standing still for five years is slowly sinking in quicksand.

CY

DEAR CY:

My husband never tells me his income, but I am sure he doesn't report it all to the government. Your article on informing to the Internal Revenue Service and getting paid for it was music to these tired ears. After all his nastiness and shouting about my household budget, I'd like to se him squirm a little! His principles aren't too good, but when I argue, he hollers, "Everyone knows I have character! They can see it in my eyes!"

MRS. BROWBEAETN

DEAR MRS. BROWBEATEN:

The IRS feels most wives, stool - pigeoning on husbands, produce more emotion than evidence. But watch out! Some female stool-pigeons soon discover they have no home in which to roost!

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Tuesday, July 7, 1964

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) Don't get into time-wasting, wordy discussions, but do sit down to talk over calmly whatever must be worked out. A day in which to keep on the ball, be accurate.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Experiences of the past may give you the clues to proper handling of this day's action. With proper procedure, you should do well now.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Congeniality and a philosophical outlook will keep things going smoothly. You may face some unexpected opposition, but keep temper even. Gain ground through smart use of your talents.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Sturdy effort will do the trick on this "on-and-off" day. Some interesting challenges indicated. Original ideas may be accepted soon.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Evidence of some changes being made. But be careful not to make too many, nor go too far in any one direction. A new adjustment may be dandy.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Admonitions for this day: avoid haste in both word and deed; don't start new programs without sufficient data; DO give careful thought to all long-range plans.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You may be asked to do more than usual, to assist someone even though your own duties are numerous. Where you can, put forth that extra effort; it will be greatly prized.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Through keen observation, clever managing of your affairs, and careful direction of your aptitudes, you can achieve top rewards now. There's more than one way to break through obstacles.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — An extremely favorable Jupiter aspect encourages your finest efforts. This is the time to go all out and accomplish really BIG things. But avoid "get-rich-quick" schemes.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Keep at whatever you are doing since you seem to be close to whatever you wish to achieve. Your intuition can be of great help now.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Give of your best to those who have proven worthy in the past, but do not waste your time or generosity on schemers and chiselers. Be alert to the motives of all.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — With earnest endeavor and accurate direction, you can advance now — both in every day tasks and in new ventures. Make the best use of your very fine talents.

YOU BORN TODAY: As a Cancerian, you are noted for your conservatism, dignity, kindliness to the needy and tenacity of purpose. Likely faults, however, lie in inconsistency, hypersensitivity and jealousy. You know the score, and your better self is so amiable and personable, it would be foolish not to recognize your failings and correct them. If a venture seems sound, try it; don't wait too long or a more enterprising person may take your advantage. Cancerians excel in advertising, promotion, on the stage, in geology and history.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Mediterranean Conference In Algiers On Atom Weapons

By Richard Spong
Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON — Delegates from nations bordering the Mediterranean and from North and South America have been invited to attend a five-day conference in Algiers beginning Sunday, July 5, to press for the removal of nuclear arms and forces from Mediterranean bases.

The newest of Algerian conferences apparently is an installment payment on the Russian account.

President Ahmed Ben Bella is deeply in debt to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, as was disclosed during the Algerian dictator's recent visit to the Soviet Union. The obligation is largely material, though Ben Bella also received the Lenin Peace Prize as an "ardent champion of peaceful coexistence."

The Soviet Union granted Algeria a $100 million credit in 1963. This time the Russians added more credit facilities of 115 million rubles (127.6 million) to cover the cost of a metallurgical complex with an annual capacity of 300,000 to 350,000 tons of rolled metal that they will build in Algeria.

"The Russians," reports "The Economist" of London, "will also set up as a gift an oil institute and a technical college that together are capable of training 20 students.

The cost of other technical schools, notably one for textiles, will be met by last year's loan. This will also pay for agricultural machinery, for two Ilyushin planes, for additional Russian doctors and for experts who will start up factories that have been idle since independence.

It will also cover a 19,000-ton tanker that the Russians have promised."

In return, Ben Bella, just after Khrushchev's May 10 speech at Port Said, Egypt, issued a clarion call for an international conference at Algiers to foster denuclearizing of the Mediterranean and the ouster of foreign military bases.

Khrushchev had denounced the U. S. Sixth Fleet and warned of the "great danger" if Polaris missiles were brought into the Mediterranean.

The conference evidently was suggested during Ben Bella's Moscow visit. The French newspaper "Figaro" suggests that a secret protocol calls for the installation of a Russian nuclear submarine base in Algeria.

The Khrushchev - Ben Bella bargain apparently is entirely pragmatic. Ben Bella said in Moscow, May 6, that his government had "definetly chosen the path of socialism," but he does not allow Communists to organize in his one-party state. And Khrushchev seemed not at all disturbed last April when "Alger Republicain," a pro-Communist newspaper, was absorbed by the National Liberation Front (FLN).

What makes Ben Bella valuable to Khrushchev is the prestige among African revolutionaries the Algerian enjoys.

Eight years of armed struggle have made Ben Bella a hero of much influence in a part of the world where Khrushchev vies not only with the West but with China.

Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, and Yugoslavia are expected to supply most of the foreign aid to launch a state-owned textile, clothing, and leather goods complex in Algeria. Russia is also sending arms and planes.

Majors' Dream Nines Battle Today

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Dean Chance, the fun loving Los Angeles Angels' right-hander, was the American League's surprising starting choice against big Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers in Tuesday's All-Star baseball game at Shea Stadium.

After years of chasing the American League in All-Star competition the National League, a 7-5 favorite, finally had a chance to even matters in this 35th renewal. Although the American won 12 of the first 16, the National has taken 12 of the last 18 with one tie. As a result the American's edge is 17-16-1.

About 45,000 fans are expected to see the game at the Mets' new stadium in Flushing Meadows. Many more will follow the contest on NBC network television and radio. Game time is noon, EST.

Because the starting line-ups, selected by vote of the players, coaches and managers, are loaded with right-handed batters, both manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox and Walter Alston of the world champion Dodgers picked right-handed starting pitchers.

Tony Oliva, Minnesota's fine rookie right fielder, is the only regular lefty swinger in the American line-up although Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, a switch hitter, will bat lefty against Drysdale.

"Actually it doesn't mean that much," said Alston at a morning news conference. "These guys wouldn't be on the All-Star team if they couldn't hit both left and right hand pitching."

Lopez's choice of Chance surprised many. The 23-year-old playtime buddy of Bo Belinsky's started Sunday in Boston and was knocked out in the second inning.

5-5 Record

Chance, named to the All-Star team for the first time, has a 5-5 won-lost record. He is the young man who made quite a stir by feuding with the management asking for a raise over his $18,000 salary. The owners asked him to prove he could pitch well enough to earn more.

Drysdale, 27, will be making his fourth All-Star start, having opened both of the 1959 games and also the first game at Washington in 1962. Alston said he picked him because he had the most rest.

Drysdale, 11-7 for the season, beat the New York Mets Friday night in his last outing although he was hit hard.

"I'll possibly come in with Chris Short of the Phillies after Drysdale," Said Alston. "It depends how many of those right-handers they leave in there. Or I may talk to Jim Bunning (Philadelphia's perfect game pitcher) to see how he feels. He pitched 10 innings Saturday.

"The ideal thing in these games is to get as many men as possible in the game but still to win it. I followed the voting for both first and second teams and had only four lefty hitters so I added Johnny Callison, (Philadelphia), who always wears us out, and Smoky Burgess (Pittsburgh), who hits a ton against the Dodgers."

Alston was not annoyed about managers pitching All-Star pitchers over the weekend. Four of the Nationals started Sunday, including his own Sandy Koufax. "I don't know how you can tell a manager not to use his best pitcher," said Alston.

In addition to Drysdale, Short and Bunning, Alston will have available Juan Marichal of San Francisco, Dick Farrell of Houston, Dick Ellsworth of Chicago and Koufax.

3 Yanks, 3 Twins

The American starting line-up will have three Yanks and three Minnesota Twins, plus third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore and shortstop Jim Fregosi of the Angels.

The Yanks are catcher Elston Howard, second baseman Bobby Richardson and Mantle in his 13th All-Star game. The Twins' delegation includes left fielder Harmon Killebrew, the major league leader with 30 homers and 64 runs batted in, first baseman Bob Allison and Oliva.

San Francisco has center fielder Willie Mays and first baseman Orlando Cepeda among the National starters and St. Louis has shortstop Dick Groat and third baseman Ken Boyer.

Other starters include right fielder Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, second baseman Ron Hunt of New York, catcher Joe Torre of Milwaukee, Williams and Drysdale.

All starters, except pitchers, must play at least the first three innings. No pitcher can work more than three innings except in overtime games.

Olympics IBM Testing Ground

LOS ANGELES—All at once there has arrived here a pamphlet from International Business Machines in New York, a credit card from Kokusai Denshin Denwa Company, Ltd., No. 5, 1-Chome, O-Te-Machi, Chiyoda-Ku, Tokyo, Japan, and the latest issue of Sports Illustrated, all hinting that an event of uncommon size and stature will soon be taking place in the land of the Rising Sun.

As you know, the Olympic Games, as such, are outmoded. They are being retained only as a testing ground for IBM which uses the opportunity to operate machines so advanced that they will be turning out results this time on chop sticks that come with a side of Sukiyaki.

In the same motion, you will eat your lunch and find out who won the 100-meter backstroke.

Kowusai Denshin Denwa Company, Ltd., No. 5, 1-Chome, O-Te-Machi, Chiyoda-Ku, Tokyo, Japan, is the agency by which creatures of the press are being invited to file their shabby prose.

The firm will accept messages in any language, a courtesy not extended to all foreigners who file in our country.

Still lingering is this horrible vision of our Japanese friend at Squaw Valley trying to get his story to his paper in Tokyo.

Two-Way System

The moon had long risen over the Sierra. Other correspondents romped in nearby gambling hells, danced the twist and exposed themselves to sins of the evening. But our Japanese friend pored over his labor.

This unfortunate man began writing his story in Japanese, which, as you know, is read vertically. Then to file by Western Union, he had to translate the Japanese characters phonetically into English inasmuch as Western Union doesn't transmit in Japanese.

He also had to make it read horizontally since Western Union doesn't take copy that reads up and down, either. At his office in Japan, the horizontal English had to be translated once again into vertical Japanese.

The pood soul. Each night, the revelers observed a moment of silence for him.

In offering helpful hints to the Tokyo traveler, Sports Illustrated this week has painted the place as a sort of Paris with Kimonos.

". . . The hostesses (nightclub) are often the most beautiful and charming women you will see," the article says. "And if one should join you and keep you company, like a modern-day geisha, you pay for her drinks and often for her time as well. The fact there are hostesses in a place should not keep you from taking your wife there. She is welcome in all respectable places."

Maybe by the management, but not by you.

At a dinner at the Sheraton-West Hotel the other night, we eavesdropped on a conversation between a lady advertising executive from Tokyo and an American gentleman. He observed that he was going to Japan for the Olympics.

"You take wife?" she asked.

"No, I leave wife home."

The lady smiled. "Tokyo very nice place for gentleman," she said.

Back at the computer ranch, IBM has a machine this time that will sing an aria from Madame Butterfly.

"Of the 43 lines feeding contest data to the datacenter," we are informed, "27 are linked with one computer system and 16 with another. The computer systems include an IBM 1448 transmission control unit, a 1440 computer and a 1301 disk storage unit capable of containing 56 million characters of information.

"As the data is received, the 1448 transmission control unit translates the information into computer language. This data then is checked for accuracy by a 1440. The message is confirmed by causing a 1050 to print, in red, a duplicate message, plus the athlete's name. These are obtained from the 1301 disk storage unit.

To Memory Of 1410

"After three messages have been translated and verified, the 1440 automatically forwards them to the memory of the 1410. One by one, the 1410 checks the codes and calls forth from the 1410 the instructions required to process the score. . . ."

In the computer age, humans fail to take into consideration the machine element. What happens to production if the 1310 falls in love with the 1410? And the 1410 finds out and finks to the boss?

Japan is spending millions on the Olympics this year to work out these wrinkles for IBM.

Babe Ruth Loop Meets Tonight

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Babe Ruth League officials and managers will meet today at the YMCA, Stroudsburg, starting at 8 p.m. Bill Frear will be in charge of the session.

Tom Brown To Try Football

WASHINGTON (AP)— Bonus boy Tom Brown, a two-year flop with the Washington Senators, turns his back on baseball to try his luck with the Green Bay football Packers.

Brown, a two-sport star at the University of Maryland, notified Washington officials he will quit baseball after Sunday's game with the Senators' York farm team in the Class AA Eastern League.

Line Material, Crowe's Winners

STROUDSBURG — Veteran of Foreign Wars and Line Material won Monroe County Babe Ruth League tussles last night.

Line Material tallied in every inning to humble the Eagles, 23-6. Bobby Warner led LM's attack with three hits.

League-leading VFW dropped its second game as Crowe Insurance scored a 13-12 victory at Lim's Field, Stroudsburg.

Despite the loss, VFW stayed a half game in front of Exchange Club. The Vets are now 7-2, while the Exchange boasts a 6-2 record.

Castro Hurls Kids To Win

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro is getting stronger and receiving more support—on the baseball field.

The bearded Cuban dictator joined the teen-age set for a baseball game Sunday and pitched his first complete game since his revolution.

The bearded one, a long time baseball fan, also drove in two runs with a pair of singles as he led Camaguey to a 14-4 victory over Pinar Del Rio.

Castro pitched perfect ball for seven innings, then weakened in the sun

Aussies Win Cricket Test

LEEDS, England (AP) — Australia won the third cricket test match against England by Seven wickets Monday and went one up in the five-match series for the "ashes", traditional symbol of international supremacy.

England held a slight lead going to the last day's play but went out before lunch with only 229 runs in the second innings. The Aussies, needing 108 runs to win, came within 18 by the tea interval they won out when Ian Redpath hit a boundary.

Warns Braves About Moving

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A Milwaukee County official strongly implied yesterday that the Braves could be sued for "about a half million dollars" if the Milwaukee club shifted to Atlanta for the 1965 baseball season.

John Doyne, Milwaukee County executive, said the county could prove damages in that amount if the franchise was shifted with a year still to go on the Braves' stadium contract.

Nicklaus Arrives For British Open

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Jack Nicklaus arrived at St. Andrews for the British Open Golf Championship Monday after 16 hours of travel and within minutes he was out on the Old Course testing the tricky layout with the small British ball.

He said he would use it because "I think it is 25 yards longer" than the larger American ball.

Nicklaus, the leading U.S. money winner, heads a big American challenge for the Open which includes Champagne Tony Lema, Phil Rodgers, Doug Ford, Doug Sanders and amateur champion Deane Beaman.

Lema is one of the hot players right now. Ford is a former PGA and Masters winner and Beman won the British amateur in 1959.

Nicklaus has won every major title except the British Open, and wants it badly. He almost had it last year but he shot bogey-bogey on the last two holes.

Bob Charles, the New Zealand left-hander, won the title in a playoff with Rodgers, the California pro. Both are back.

Colts Ship Staub To Minors

HOUSTON (AP) — Rusty Staub, probably the Houston Colts' biggest bonus player and the symbol of the new National League club's youth movement, has been shipped to the minors.

The 20-year old first baseman-outfielder and Louisiana schoolboy athlete of the year in 1961, was told Sunday night to report to the Colts' Oklahoma City farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Staub, a native of New Orleans, was hitting .292 for 73 games with the Colts but had knocked in 27 runs, the third highest on the ninth place club.

Last year he hit .224 and batted in 45 runs.

"This may be the best thing for me," Staub told newsmen after he was informed of the decision. "I know the club thinks it is for my own good.

South African Seen Upsetter

ST. ANDRWS, Scotland (AP) — Cobie Legrange, a 21-year-old South African, indulged in some American-style golfing diligence yesterday and sett himself up as the longshot most likely to upset the favorites, Jack Nicklaus and Tony Lema in the British Open Golf Championship.

Legrange won the British Masters tournament eight days ago—his first big victory as a pro. He had to qualify for the open and did it brilliantly, sharing the qualifying lead with amateur Rome Shade of Scotland.

Pocono Youth Set For Actor's Equity

By Charles McNett
Daily Record Reporter

TANNERSVILLE — One group of Pocono area youngsters won't get bored this summer. They're learning the theatrical ropes at Cherry Lane Playhouse as apprentices and junior staff members.

After two summers at the musical summer stock theater, they are eligible to join Actor's Equity, the organization for professional actors.

Theater - goers are familiar with apprentices, the disembodied wraiths who hustle about the stage changing scenery between scenes at the theater-in-the - round set-up in a converted Amish barn near Henryville.

They are also the young faces that occasionally pop up in the chorus or doing a "walk-on"—all activities that add to their experience.

Do Dirty Work

Apprentices also do a good deal of dirty work behind the scenes. They're the ones who paint and build sets, tear down sets, sweep the playhouse, run errands, and do anything else anyone can think up.

Kids in the company at the local playhouse must like it—most of them are on their second year there. Second year apprentices are Adelaide Wolfe, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Wolfe of Tamersville; and Allison Smith, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merriman Smith of Henryville and Washington, D.C.

First year apprentices are Candy Wolfe, 15, Adelaide's sister; Jackie Drimer, 17, New York City; and Hildegard Bauman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Bauman of Meisertown. Bildy is a student at East Stroudsburg State College.

Junior staff members are Mike Judson, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Judson of Washington, D.C., house manager; Jane Hunter, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Hunter of Henryville, box office; and Joanne Shutt, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shutt of Henryville, props. Jane and Joanne are also working their second year at the theater.

Rae Hooker, co-producer of the season - long series of musicals, said that most actors get their start as apprentices. Hooker, himself, started out as a paleon tologist. Born in Comanche, Tex., Hooker entered the theater in 1956, and toured in "Bus Stop." After a back injury cut short his acting career, he went into production, working first on "The Crucible."

Irwin Co-producer

His co-producer is Jack Irwin, who has appeared in "Music Man," "Most Happy Fellow," "Camelot," and "Tovarish." From Nashville Tenn., Irwin entered the theater about 10 years ago. Cherry Lane is his first venture as a producer.

Hooker said a resident company of 15, who put on a different musical every week, is fairly rare in the theatrical business. Now in their third season of productions, Hooker is optimistic about the future of the company.

The kids are having the time of their lives.

Area Blast Of 1860 Took 10 Lives

STROUDSBURG — Serious explosions, such as the one near Marshalls Creek recently, are not new, if not frequent, in the area. Perhaps one of the first was that of the steamer "Alfred Thomas," whose boiler exploded March 6, 1860, taking 10 lives.

The tale is related in "Report of the Secretary of the Treasury on the State of the Finances, for the Year Ending June 3, 1860." The book is in the possession of Thomas, McCool Sr. of Henryville.

According to the official report, the "Alfred Thomas" was a small steamer built to run on the Delaware River between Belvidere, N.J., and Port Jervis, N.Y. It was not inspected by federal authorities.

Left Easton

The day of the explosion the steamer left Easton with an excursion party aboard to go to Belvidere to begin her regular runs.

An investigation ordered by the Secretary of the Treasury reveals the vessel was a 75-foot sternwheeler with one boiler and two high pressure steam engines.

The investigators said the boat left the juncture of the Delaware and Lehigh Rivers around noon and headed upriver. After some three-fourths of a mile, a strong current stopped her progress. She lay in an eddy below an island for some time building up steam.

When the pressure reached 125 pounds, the report continues, the "Alfred Thomas" had another try at the current. About three minutes later she blew up. Of 35 to 40 people aboard, 10 were killed.

The report says that the explosion was "one of the most serious (of the year), and one which produced great agitation and excitment in the community where it occurred, from the number of prominent and valuable citizens whose lives were lost thereby. . ."

The investigation revealed the vessel's boiler had been poorly constructed, and the heavy head of steam gotten up to offset the rapid curent had been too much for it.

Kennels Obedience Training Great Dane

Les Marsh, of Marshalls Creek Kennels, shown above is currently putting a 4 month old Great Dane through Obedience Training. The Dane, also shown, belongs to Mr. & Mrs. John W. Young, of RD 2, East Stroudsburg. The canine, named "Nero" shows promise as a fine specimen of the breed. Its color is fawn. The male Dane is still a pup according to Les Marsh, who said the dog is but half grown and will be approximately 32" high at the shoulders when full grown. Although "Nero" is supposed to be too young yet for training at four months, Marsh, stated the pet has responded remarkably to learning in its first week at the school.

The new school has a great variety of pets in training at this time. They range from Poodles and Schnauzers to hounds and even the above shown Great Dane. The Kennels has a multitude of services since its renovation this year. Clipping, Grooming, Washing and drying, obedience training, and boarding are all a part of the unique service to the Poconos which cares for local as well as tourist pets who have to be away from their master for some reason.

Boarding facilities include spotless quarters, ventilation, 8 ft. individual runways, heating when necessary, indoor and outdoor combination stalls and meals—all for $1.50 per day. The extra-special canine service leaves the pet-owner with a feeling of complete confidence when his pet is boarded. The new Kennels is located off route 402, Marshals Creek, next to Mt. Manor Golf Course. Present owners of the canine motel are Les and Alice Marsh, who reside near the Kennels.

Retired Smoker Tasting Again

By Frank Perretta
Record News Editor

I can taste celery. I can smell fresh tar from as far away as two blocks.

Before St. Patrick's Day I couldn't smell fresh tar.

And celery was just cold and noisy in my mouth. It had no taste.

Reasons for the better sniffer and tastier taste buds?

I've quit smoking.

After 17 years, and finally hitting the three pack a day plateau, I quit smoking.

In March I attended a "smoking clinic" run by the Seventh Day Adventists in Stroudsburg.

Since March, I haven't had a cigarette.

Since March I've wished for one every day.

Made Change In Life

The divorce from Lady Nicotine—that's the way the Adventists refer to it—has made a change in my life.

Frankly, I don't know if it is for the better but then I taste celery, smell fresh tar, go up stairs without being winded and I know I must be much better off.

When you quit smoking you become something of an oddity.

It's almost like starting to smoke.

The first time I took a cigarette — around 16 years old— I became the center of attention. Something of a hero. The guys all oooed and aaaahed.

The same pattern is back again.

When a former three pack a day man like me turns down a butt you get some of those gushy ooooooos and aaaaaaahs.

Only at 33 years old I don't appreciate the fuss as much as I did when I was 16.

I have friends though who are hoping I start smoking. They haven't said it.

But you can tell by the look of disgust in their eyes when I refuse a butt.

To some, I represent a symbol. Something they dislike. I quit and they haven't but would like to.

I am not bragging now.

As a matter of fact I don't even like to discuss smoking because the urge is still with me.

One happy-go - lucky psychologist optimistically informed me that if I could stay away for seven years, then he assured me that the urge will vanish.

Gains Weight

One of the chief after effects, reported by many who quit smoking is, the weight gain.

I don't think I've gained too much weight.

But those darn cleaners have shrunk all my suits.

March Of Dimes Sets Luncheon

STROUDSBURG — Board members of the Monroe County National Foundation March of Dimes will meet Thursday at noon for a dutch-treat luncheon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Mrs. Olaf Pedersen, state advisor of women's activities, and Paul Hungerford, state representative, have been invited, Nancy Shukaitis, secretary of the group, said.

Tobyhanna Twp. was formed in 1830 by taking some land from Coolbaugh Twp. It was named after an indian name given to the entire area. Some say the name means "Dark Waters." The population in 1960 was 1,073.
